

Pastoral Learning Communities 2009-2010 (Scroll down for assignments)

Two basic commitments to be a part of the team are showing up and paying your dues. For Wabash Pastors, showing up means being an active, regular participant in pastoral team meetings (see below) and encouraging your church member's participation in conference sponsored events. Paying your dues means, ensuring that your church is keeping current with financial commitments related to our working together as a conference (pension, health insurance, conference tithes, home ministries, world missions).

The Pastoral Learning Community focus could be summarized by the following acronym: LEAD (Learning, Encouraging, Accountability, Dreaming)

Learning – As a pastoral team: reading, studying, resourcing each other, thinking and reflecting, maturing together

Encouraging – As a pastoral team: spurring one another on in love and good deeds, celebrating successes, seeking help in challenges, praying for each other, coaching each other, building bridges between pastoral team families

Accountability – As a pastoral team: addressing issues of integrity, fruitfulness, plateaued and declining churches, fulfilling commitments, accomplishing the mission

Dreaming – As a pastoral team: helping each other to see the big picture, planning for expanded ministries, doing cooperative ministry, passionate about completing the race together

The Pastoral Learning Community leader's role is to coordinate/facilitate PLC meetings, serve as a liaison between the PLC and the Superintendent and be responsible for keeping the PLC on focus. They may involve others in co-leading the PLC meetings. They will meet with the PLC leaders and superintendent to learn from each other on accomplishing the purposes of the PLC's.
